PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

- 1. This action challenges Arizona Senate Bill 1070, as amended (õSB 1070ö), a comprehensive set of state immigration laws expressly intended to õdiscourage and deter the unlawful entry and presence of aliens and economic activity by persons unlawfully present in the United States.ö SB 1070 proclaims and implements an immigration policy of õattrition through enforcementö for the State of Arizona. The legislation creates an array of new state-law criminal offenses relating to immigration and imposes sweeping requirements on state and local law enforcement officers to investigate alleged immigration violations and to arrest and detain persons suspected of immigration violations. The law was signed by Governor Janice Brewer on April 23, 2010, and is scheduled to go into effect on July 28, 2010.
- 2. SB 1070 attempts to create a legal regime regulating and restricting immigration and punishing those whom Arizona deems to be in violation of immigration laws. It is an impermissible encroachment into an area of exclusive federal authority and will interfere and conflict with the comprehensive federal immigration system enacted by Congress and implemented through a complex web of federal regulations and policies. According to law enforcement officials in Arizona and elsewhere, SB 1070 will cause widespread racial profiling and will subject many persons of colorô including countless U.S. citizens, and non-citizens who have federal permission to remain in the United Statesô to unlawful interrogations, searches, seizures and arrests.
- 3. SB 1070 is unconstitutional. It violates the Supremacy Clause and core civil rights and civil liberties secured by the United States Constitution, including the First Amendment right to freedom of speech and expressive activity, the Fourth Amendment right to freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures, and the Equal Protection Clause guarantee of equal protection under the law.

4. The plaintiffs in this action will suffer serious violations of their constitutional rights and civil liberties if SB 1070 goes into effect. The named plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and a class of all others similarly situated to obtain preliminary and permanent injunctive relief and a declaration that SB 1070 violates the U.S. and Arizona Constitutions.

Organizational Plaintiffs

7. Plaintiff Friendly House is a non-profit organization whose mission is to foster excellence in the community by serving the educational and human service needs of its residents. It provides comprehensive services to about 40,000 families, youth, and children each year and numerous direct services in several program areas, including immigration, family, youth, and adult services, workforce development, home care services, and charter school education. Among other immigration services, Friendly House assists applicants for asylum and victims and witnesses of crime who are eligible for visas. The clients served by Friendly House include citizens, non-citizens, and racial minorities, including Latinos. SB 1070 will force Friendly House to divert scarce resources from critical programs in order to educate and assist individuals affected by SB 1070. Friendly Houseøs mission and organizational goals will also be negatively impacted by SB 1070 because its staff will have a harder time encouraging clients to seek services in its various program areas to the extent that they involve interacting with government agencies and police. Friendly House also fears that its current and prospective clients will be deterred from seeking immigration relief because local law enforcement will continue to stop and detain them, notwithstanding their application for relief, on the basis that they do not have any registration documents that are acceptable under SB 1070.

8. Plaintiff Service Employees International Union (õSEIUö) is one of the largest labor organizations in the world, representing 2.2 million working men and women who work primarily in the public sector and in the janitorial, health services, long-term care, and security industries. Many of SEIUøs members are recent immigrants to the United States and many of its members come from racial minority groups. SEIU has long called for and worked toward comprehensive reform of U.S. immigration laws. Another priority for SEIU is fighting discrimination against minorities, women and other groups in the workplace and in society in general. In Arizona, SEIU has three affiliates: SEIU/Workers United Western Regional Joint Board; National Association of Government Employees; and Plaintiff Service Employees International Union, Local 5 (õSEIU Arizonaö). Together, these three affiliates have approximately 2,300 members spanning every county in the state, about 40 percent of whom are Latino and some of whom are other racial minorities. SEIU works in partnership with SEIU Arizona and other groups to combat discrimination and mobilize for immigration reform at the national level. SB 1070\omegas impact on already distressed county and municipal budgets will harm SEIU members to the extent that it will result in further pay cuts, furloughs, and layoffs. Furthermore, some law enforcement where they have been asked to produce proof of immigration status. SEIU is concerned that its minority members will be even more likely to be stopped, detained, arrested, and questioned by state and local police after SB 1070 goes into effect. This will cause hardship for members of SEIU. In addition, SEIU is concerned that members and potential members will be fearful to attend rallies, demonstrations, and union meetings or to engage in leafleting or other traditional labor activities because of the possibility of being stopped by the police under SB 1070. This will significantly impact the ability of SEIU to protect its existing members and to organize new members. SEIU joins this lawsuit to preserve its ability to organize new members and to protect the rights and interests of its members and prospective members.

9. Plaintiff Service Employees International Union, Local 5 (õSEIU Arizonaö), is a labor union and an affiliate of Plaintiff SEIU. SEIU Arizona represents state, county, and municipal public service employees and has 1,800 members in Arizona, including members in every county throughout the state. Approximately one-quarter of SEIU Arizonaøs membership is Latino, and its membership also includes other racial minorities. The primary mission of SEIU Arizona is to organize, represent, and empower employees in Arizona. In addition, SEIU Arizona works in partnership with SEIU and other groups to combat discrimination and mobilize for immigration reform at the national level. SB 1070\omega impact on already distressed county and municipal budgets will harm SEIU Arizonaøs members to the extent that it will result in further pay cuts, furloughs, and layoffs. Furthermore, some of SEIU Arizonages Latino members or their families have already been subjected to stops by local law enforcement where they have been asked to produce proof of immigration status. SEIU Arizona is concerned that its minority members will be even more likely to be stopped, detained, arrested, and questioned by state and local police after SB 1070 goes into effect. This will cause hardship for members of SEIU Arizona. In addition, SEIU Arizona is concerned that members and potential members will be fearful to attend rallies, demonstrations, and union meetings or to engage in leafleting or other traditional labor activities because of the possibility of being stopped by the police under SB 1070. This will significantly impact the ability of SEIU Arizona to protect its existing members and to organize new members. SEIU Arizona joins this lawsuit to preserve its ability to organize new members and to protect the rights and interests of its members and prospective members.

10. Plaintiff United Food and Commercial Workers International Union (õUFCWö) represents more than 1.3 million workers, primarily in the retail, meatpacking, food processing, and poultry industries. Within the State of Arizona there are more than 21,000 UFCW-represented workers, whose employers include retail food and non-food retail, hospital services, meat packing and food processing, parking services, and legal aid services. The UFCW represents workers who comprise a range of races and ethnicities, with varying degrees of English proficiency, including substantial numbers of Latinos. The UFCW mission is to better the terms and conditions of employment for all workers it represents and thereby better the lives of their families and communities. The UFCW accomplishes its mission through organizing, collective bargaining, and representation of employees. These core activities require freedom of association and communication between the union and the employees and among the employees at the worksite and in the community, activities protected by the United States Constitution and federal labor law. If SB 1070 is allowed to go into effect it will impose direct harm to UFCWøs core mission and representational obligations by subjecting UFCW members to unlawful questioning, arrest and detention by state and local law enforcement officers; deterring UFCWrepresented workers from attending and participating in UFCW activities; and reducing UFCW<sub>$\pi$</sub> ability to effectively advocate on behalf of the employees it represents.

11. Plaintiff Arizona South Asians For Safe Families (õASAFSFö) is an organization based in Scottsdale, Arizona whose mission is to increase awareness of domestic violence and provide support services to victims of domestic violence in the South Asian community in Arizona. Established in 2004, ASAFSFøs services include

1 providing family advocacy and safety-planning support to domestic violence victims 2 through a toll-free helpline as well as direct services to victims in the form of financial 3 assistance for child care, rent, lawyersøfees, transportation, and emergent personal needs. 4 ASAFSF® family advocates often transport victims to court and to medical and legal 5 appointments. ASAFSF also engages in community education, which includes hosting 6 small group meetings with community members. The majority of ASAFSF clients are 7 immigrant women, many of whom are eligible for federal immigration relief through the 8 Violence Against Women Act (õVAWAö), the Trafficking and Violence Protection Act 9 (õTVPAö), or asylum procedures. SB 1070 will interfere with the organization & essential 10 mission of providing support services to victims of domestic violence. First, ASAFSF 11 staff and volunteers will be at imminent risk of prosecution under SB 1070\omega transporting 12 provisions. Second, ASAFSF will have to re-allocate its very limited resources to ensure 13 that its clients feel safe reporting their experiences to law enforcement or while being 14 transported by ASAFSF advocates. Third, people will not come to its community 15 meetings for fear of being stopped, interrogated, and arrested under SB 1070. ASAFSF 16 believes its clients will be afraid of approaching law enforcement to report crimes or 17 interact with government officials because their appearance, limited English ability, and 18 accents could be used by the police to question their authorization to be in the United 19 States. Plaintiff ASAFSF also fears that local law enforcement will stop and detain clients 20 who have applied for immigration relief under the VAWA, the TVPA, or through the 21 asylum procedures, because they do not have any registration documents that are 22 acceptable under SB 1070, and that potential clients will be discouraged from seeking 23 these services. ASAFSF¢s clients and potential clients will be placed at greater risk of 24 physical and mental injury due to SB 1070. 25

12. Plaintiff Southside Presbyterian Church (õSouthsideö) is a religious institution based in Tucson, Arizona, whose mission is to serve God through worship and sacrament, and by following the Bible's admonition to odo justice, love mercy, and walk humbly with ... God.ö Southside members and leaders believe that the church has been calledo in fact, commandedô by God to welcome and serve all people. Southside follows the admonition in Hebrews 13:2: oBe not forgetful to entertain strangers, for by this some have entertained angels unawares.ö Southside serves the homeless, the day laborers, its low income neighbors, its own parishioners, and others without regard to race, gender, national origin, religion, or immigration status. Southside & community is largely comprised of low-income Latino and Native Americans families, although it also includes Caucasians and African Americans. Southside operates a homeless program, a Samaritan program through which parishioners provide assistance for individuals who are in distress in the desert, and an on-premises day laborer center. The day laborers who participate in Southside program help run the center and solicit temporary employment by visibly gathering at a public sidewalk outside the church and signaling their availability for work to potential employers. In addition, some of Southsideøs religious leaders, staff, and volunteers frequentlyô and without knowledge of, or regard to, immigration statusô transport parishioners and others to religious activities and to medical facilities; they would thus be at risk of being prosecuted pursuant to SB 1070\oting transporting and harboring provisions. SB 1070¢s criminal prohibitions infringe on Southside¢s ability to carry out its religious mission to serve all God's people. Furthermore, Southside depends on its good relationships with police, social workers, and other city and state employees to safeguard church premises and its parishioners, but Southside staff and volunteers fear that these relationships will change after SB 1070 goes into effect. Southside staff and volunteers will be hesitant to approach law enforcement and other authorities to report crimes or speak out as witnesses to crimes because the appearance, native language, and limited English ability of the community members served by Southside can be used by the police to question their authorization to be in the United States and to investigate

Southside staff and volunteers for potential violations of SB 1070. SB 1070 will frustrate the mission of Southside and divert limited resources to educating and assisting community members who will be affected by SB 1070.

13. Plaintiff Arizona Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (õAZHCCö) is an association of Latino-owned businesses located throughout the state of Arizona that seek to support, promote, and foster business, cultural, and educational relationships between chamber members and the general public. In addition to serving as a public advocate for its members, AZHCC offers seminars, workshops, marketing, and promotions, as well as networking and sponsorship opportunities for its corporate and community partners. AZHCC has more than 350 business members with employees, many of whom are Latinos, including U.S. citizens, non-citizens, monolingual Spanish speakers, limited English-proficient speakers and individuals who speak English with Mexican and other Spanish-language accents. Because of their appearance, traditional cultural practices, and limited English proficiency, some members of AZHCC and/or their employees fear they will be subject to investigation or unwarranted arrest under Arizona SB 1070. AZHCC members, like all small business owners in Arizona and nationwide, rely on local and state law enforcement to keep their companies safe and some AZHCC members would be deterred from approaching law enforcement to report criminal activity committed against them or others out of fear that the provisions of SB 1070 would subject AZHCC members to unwarranted questioning, detention or arrest. AZHCC members also include non-profit organizations who serve immigrant populations, including noncitizens that do not have federal authorization to be in the United States. The provisions of SB 1070 create new criminal penalties for certain immigrants and non-immigrants associating with immigrants and will cause considerable confusion for AZHCCøs members and other members of the general business community about their potential criminal liability under SB 1070. AZHCC will suffer financial hardship because it will have to divert already limited resources from the association's normal activities to educate and inform these groups resulting from the confusion surrounding SB 1070. Finally, since many of AZHCC\( \psi \) members heavily rely on a U.S.-born minority consumer base that will be reluctant to patronize businesses for fear that they could be harassed by local law enforcement,

AZHCC will have to divert resources from other activities to inform and educate this group as well to counter the economic harm caused by SB 1070.

14. Plaintiff Asian Chamber of Commerce of Arizona (õACCö) is an Arizona organization that brings together a network of Asian-owned businesses throughout the state that seek to support, promote and foster business, cultural and educational relationships between chamber members and the general public. ACC has over 90 organizational members. ACC members and their employees, many of whom are also of Asian descent, include U.S. citizens and non-citizens, individuals born in the U.S. and recent immigrants, monolingual non-English speakers, limited English-proficient speakers, and individuals that speak English with an accent. ACC members also include non-profit organizations who serve immigrant populations, including non-citizens who do not have federal authorization to remain in the United States. ACC members often rely on law enforcement to keep their businesses safe and would be deterred from approaching law enforcement to report criminal activity committed against them or others out of fear that SB 1070 would subject ACC members to detention, questioning, or arrest. The provisions of SB 1070 that create new criminal penalties for certain immigrants and persons associating with immigrants will cause considerable confusion for ACC® members and other members of the general business community about their potential criminal liability under SB 1070. ACC will have to divert its limited resources to addressing this confusion and fear. Finally, since many of its member organizations rely heavily on a minority consumer base that will become reluctant to patronize businesses for fear that they could be harassed by local law enforcement, ACC will have to divert resources from other activities to address the considerable confusion and complaints surrounding SB 1070.

- 15. Plaintiff Border Action Network (õBANö) is a statewide membership organization devoted to protecting the human rights and dignity of immigrant and border communities. BAN builds the political and social capacity of its constituency through grassroots organizing, leadership development, policy advocacy, and educational activities. BAN has over 1,000 members distributed across 6 Arizona counties. The great majority of BAN s membership is Latino. In addition, BAN has some members who are day laborers who solicit work on public sidewalks and corners. Some of BANøs members, including its day laborer members, do not have permission to work or remain in the United States. Other BAN members are legal residents or U.S. citizens, and some live in families of mixed immigration status and nationality. BAN is concerned that its members will be stopped, detained, or arrested under SB 1070 due to their appearance or lack of acceptable documents. BANøs own mission will be frustrated by SB 1070. Its staff frequently buses members to events and organizational functions without regard to their passengersøimmigration status, and they are concerned that this could subject them to prosecution under SB 1070. In addition, BAN will have to divert significant resources to a public education campaign to inform its members about their rights and responsibilities under the new law and address their fears and concerns. Finally, some of BAN¢s members have already expressed a desire to leave the state; SB 1070 will make it harder for its staff to maintain its membership base and to recruit new members.
- 16. Plaintiff Tonatierra Community Development Institute (õTonatierraö) is a nonprofit community-based organization in Phoenix, Arizona that advocates for the cultural, educational, and economic development needs of the indigenous community in Arizona. Some of the families it works with are members of indigenous American Indian tribes who fear that they will be stopped and questioned under SB 1070 if they are not carrying tribal identification cards. In addition, Tonatierra operates a day laborer center called Centro Macehualli. The mission of Centro Macehualli is to empower workers and protect them from exploitation. Day laborers who gather at Centro Macehualli are hired by homeowners, small businesses, and construction contractors as independent contractors or employees for temporary work such as gardening, cleaning, child care, moving, and 6 construction. Centro Macehualli does not condition membership and access to its services on immigration status. As such, the Center is open to both citizen and non-citizen day laborers. SB 1070 would frustrate Centro Macehuallig mission by criminalizing the expressive activity of members who are not authorized by the federal government to work 10 in the United States and chilling the expressive activity of members who are authorized to work. Due to SB 1070, members of Centro Macehualli are refraining, out of fear of 12 prosecution, from indicating their need and availability for work in public areas. 16 19 20

17. Plaintiff Muslim American Society (õMASö) is a charitable, religious, social, cultural, and educational organization with an advocacy arm called the MAS Freedom Foundation (õMASFö). Part of MASøs mission is to protect the civil rights and liberties of American Muslims. The mission of MASF is to integrate and empower the American Muslim community through civic education, participation, community outreach, and coalition building. MAS and MASF have an office and chapter in Phoenix, Arizona, with over 30 members (õMAS-AZö), who are also members of MAS. Some of MAS-AZøs members are immigrants who will be subjected to profiling based on their foreign appearance and clothing, such as headscarves. SB 1070 will thwart the organizational mission of MAS, as MAS-AZ members have already indicated that they will be afraid to attend town hall meetings and its immigration clinic after SB 1070. MAS¢s mission to provide community education to the Muslim American community in Arizona will also be thwarted because its target audience will be too afraid to attend meetings and organized activities and events. In addition, MAS-AZ will have to shift scarce organizational resources to create new educational materials to protect its members from SB 1070, rather than spend these resources on other areas.

- 18. Plaintiff Japanese American Citizens League (õJACLö) is a membership organization founded in 1929 that works to advance the civil rights of Japanese Americans and others who are victimized by injustice and bigotry. JACL's Arizona chapter ("JACL AZ") has over 300 members, including non-citizen immigrants as well as U.S. citizens and racial minorities. To advance its mission, JACL AZ sponsors public education events, holds membership meetings, conducts outreach to teachers and schools, and works to preserve the history of the Gila and Poston WWII Japanese American concentration camps. JACL AZ collaborates with local city and community agencies to host a monthly senior center. Some JACL AZ members who seek assistance through or participate in its programs lack authorization to remain in the United States; others have only an H1-B visa. JACL believes that even its U.S. citizen members will be profiled under SB 1070. JACL fears that SB 1070 will create fear and confusion, especially for its elderly who were imprisoned in Japanese internment camps. In addition, JACL AZ will need to spend its scarce organizational resources and employ its mostly volunteer staff to create new educational materials to respond to SB 1070.
- 19. Plaintiff Valle del Sol, Inc. is a non-profit organization that has served the Maricopa County community since 1970. Valle del Sol helps thousands of individuals each year by providing extensive behavioral health and social services. The agency provides counseling, substance abuse treatment, prevention services, case management, adult education, advocacy, leadership development, and services for seniors. Valle del Soløs programs address the increasing social and community needs related to family, substance abuse, civic engagement, cultural diversity, and behavioral health problems. As one of the largest Latino behavioral health and social service organizations in Maricopa County, Valle del Soløs culturally diverse, bilingual staff provides a wide array of programs and services for the entire family. Its mission and the people it serves will be directly affected by SB 1070. Valle del Sol serves a diverse mixture of populations a majority of whom are Latinos. SB 1070 will force Valle del Sol to divert scarce resources from critical programs in order to educate and assist individuals affected by SB 1070. Furthermore, SB 1070 will thwart the mission and organizational goals of Valle del Sol by deterring its clients from seeking the organization services because the clients fear interrogation, detention, and arrest under the provisions of SB 1070. Because the agency name is in Spanish, there exists a fear by staff that on that basis alone, Valle del Sol may be a target under the provisions of SB 1070.

20. Coalición de Derechos Humanos (õDerechos Humanosö) is a grassroots community-service organization based in Tucson, Arizona, whose mission is to promote human rights in the U.S.-Mexico border region. Since 1992, Derechos Humanos has furthered its mission by organizing public education campaigns on issues related to immigration, conducting citizenship workshops for lawful permanent residents and immigrant refugees, and hosting intake clinics through which the organization assists community membersô including racial minorities and non-citizen immigrantsô who experience law enforcement, workplace, landlord/tenant, and housing discrimination problems. Derechos Humanos offers its services without regard to whether the person is authorized by the federal government to be present in the United States. Derechos Humanos has already been forced to suspend most of its work relating to community education on border deaths and leadership development to respond to inquiries from the community about SB 1070. The fear and confusion created by SB 1070 has also resulted in a dramatic drop in attendance at workshops and events. Community members served by Derechos Humanos are afraid to take steps to protect their rights when it means any interaction with government officials, including trying to protect their rights through the state courts. SB 1070 will frustrate the mission of Derechos Humanos and divert limited resources to educating and assisting community members who will be affected by SB 1070.

Individual Plaintiffs

21. Plaintiff Pedro Espinoza is a resident of Tucson, Arizona and a senior in high school. Pedro was brought to the United States by his father, who had a work visa, when Pedro was only a few months old. He has lived in Arizona ever since. When Pedro was four years old, his father, who had been petitioning for Pedro to become a legal resident, passed away. His grandmother then took over the immigration petition process, but she eventually passed away too before the application could be approved. In November 2010, when Pedro was riding his bicycle home from his girlfriend s house, he was pulled over by police officers for not having a bicycle light. The officers started to ask questions about his identity and, when he could only produce a student ID, they arrested him and took him to jail. At the jail, detention officers interrogated him about his immigration status. He was held there for two days before being transferred to Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) custody and placed in deportation proceedings. Pedro is a model student who hopes to go to college and study medicine one day. He is active in his community, volunteers with the Salvation Army and attends church each Sunday. Many community members helped raise money to pay for Pedrogs bond so that he could be released from detention while his deportation proceedings are underway. He is now back home, but does not have any identification (other than his student ID) or registration document. Because of SB 1070, Pedro fears that he could be stopped by state or local law enforcement officers and would be detained all over again because he does not have an identification or registration document that local law enforcement officials would recognize, even though the federal government is already aware of his presence in the United States and he is currently in deportation proceedings.

22. Plaintiff C.M., a minor, <sup>1</sup> is a resident of Gilbert, Arizona and a freshman in high school. She is originally from Haiti and, due to the recent earthquake there, has been granted Temporary Protected Status in the United States. C.M. is 15 years old but is often told that she looks 18. C.M. does not carry any documents proving that she has permission to be in the United States. However, she recently asked her mother to obtain an Arizona non-driverøs identification for her after she learned about SB 1070. She was afraid that she would be stopped and questioned about her immigration status due to her dark skin and the fact that she speaks a foreign language. She is nervous about speaking Haitian Creole with her friends and believes that it could get her in trouble with the police under SB 1070.

23. Plaintiff Luz Santiago is a pastor for a church in Mesa, Arizona. She is a U.S. citizen, Latina, and fluent in Spanish. Approximately 80 percent of her congregation lacks authorization by the federal government to remain in the United States. In her role as a pastor, Ms. Santiago provides transportation and shelter to members of her congregation on a daily basis, including those members who are not authorized by the federal government to remain in the United States. Ms. Santiago assists members of her congregation by driving them to court, doctoros appointments, urgent care, the grocery store, and school. Once a month, she also transports the youth in her congregation to spiritual outings. Ms. Santiago also provides shelter to persons who seek sanctuary in her church and runs a food bank that does not screen for authorization by the federal government to remain in the United States. Ms. Santiago fears for the well-being of vulnerable congregation members who could be stopped, detained, arrested, and questioned under SB 1070. In addition, she believes that people will stop seeking help from the food bank because of SB 1070. Ms. Santiago is concerned that she could be subject to prosecution under the transporting and harboring provisions of SB 1070 for performing work that is central to her role as a religious leader.

- 24. Plaintiff Jim Shee is an elderly resident of Litchfield Park, Arizona. He is a U.S. citizen of Spanish and Chinese descent, is fluent in Spanish, and has lived in Arizona his entire life. Over the past month, Mr. Shee has been stopped twice by local police in Arizona and asked to produce identification documents. On or about April 6, 2010, Mr. Shee was stopped and questioned on the way to his birthday party by a City of Phoenix police officer who demanded to see his õpapers.ö He was not given a citation. On or about April 16, 2010, Mr. Shee was stopped by a highway patrol officer with the Arizona Department of Public Safety in Yuma, Arizona. The officer made a U-turn, activated his emergency lights, stopped Mr. Shee and asked to see his õpapers.ö If SB 1070 goes into effect, Mr. Shee fears that he will be at even greater risk of being stopped and questioned by Arizona law enforcement officials based on his appearance. He fears that he will be detained because he will be unable to prove to an officer that he is a U.S. citizen. Mr. Shee does not wish to carry his passport with him at all times because he is afraid of losing it.
- 25. Plaintiff Jose Angel Vargas is a resident of Phoenix, Arizona and is a lawful permanent resident of the United States. He speaks Spanish fluently but not English. Mr. Vargas is a member of Tonatierraß Centro Macehualli. He has lawfully and peacefully solicited work at Centro Macehualli and on public street corners. Mr. Vargas would like to continue soliciting work in public places; however, he is very worried that he will be detained by the police under SB 1070 due to his Latino appearance, the fact that he cannot communicate with a police officer in English, and because he solicits work alongside others who do not have authorization to work in the United States. He was already arrested for trespassing once before in Arizona, in March 2009, while soliciting work on a corner near 25th Street and Bell Road in North Phoenix. While the charges were dropped shortly thereafter, Mr. Vargas continues to be fearful of encounters with the police.

26. Plaintiff Maura Castillo is a resident of Chandler, Arizona and a lawful permanent resident of the United States. She speaks Spanish and can understand some English; however, she speaks very little English. Ms. Castillo is originally from Mexico and appears Latina. On August 10, 2010, Ms. Castillo was driving with a friend on Interstate 10 when she was stopped by an officer with the Arizona Department of Public Safety. Upon approaching the vehicle, the officer asked Ms. Castillo for her driverge license, registration and insurance. He also asked Ms. Castillo for a opassport or visa. He did not inform Ms. Castillo why she had been stopped. Because Ms. Castillo had recently had her Arizona driverge license stolen, she presented a driverge license from Mexico. When she failed to provide the immigration documents and instead asked the officer if he was from õimmigration, ö the officer arrested Ms. Castillo by forcefully wrestling her out of her vehicle. The officer pushed Ms. Castillo to the ground, injuring her shoulder. Later, when Ms. Castillo was in handcuffs in the back of the patrol vehicle, the officer learned that Ms. Castillogs license had been suspended in connection with a civil traffic proceeding (this was also the first time Ms. Castillo learned of the suspension). Ms. Castillo was booked into the Maricopa County Jail for driving on a suspended license and resisting arrest. At the Jail, however, after officials confirmed that she was lawfully in the country, the arresting officer told Ms. Castillo that he would not have arrested her if she had just cooperated and oshown him her documents. Shortly thereafter, Ms. Castillogs case was scratched because no criminal complaint was ever filed. Plaintiff Castillo experienced great trauma from this incident and fears that SB 1070 puts her at greater risk of being stopped and questioned about her immigration status again due to her appearance and limited English ability.

27. Plaintiff Maria Morales is a resident of Casa Grande, Arizona. She is lawful permanent resident of the United States. Ms. Morales lives in a neighborhood that is predominantly Mexican and speaks English with a heavy accent. On November 15, 2010, while returning home to meet her son after school, she was pulled over by an officer with the Pinal County Sheriff of Office, apparently for rolling through a stop sign (Ms. Morales denies this and remembers having made a complete stop at the intersection). However, when Ms. Morales asked the officer why she had been pulled over, he refused to tell her. The officer simply demanded that she produce identification. Ms. Morales reached into her wallet and pulled out an Arizona Identification Card so that it was visible to the officer and asked again why she had been stopped. At that point, the officer removed Ms. Morales from her vehicle and placed her under arrest. He confiscated her ID and cell phone, and searched her car. Even though the officer was able to verify that her ID was valid, he had her vehicle towed and transported her to jail anyway. Only after the tow truck had left did he allow Ms. Morales to call her husband to make alternative arrangements to pick up her son. At the jail, a 287g certified officer confirmed that Ms. Morales was a legal resident. He asked her why she didnot tell the arresting officer she was resident and admonished her for not carrying her resident alien card. Ms. Morales was not released until the next day. Her criminal case was dismissed and she was never cited for any stop sign violation. Ms. Morales should not have been arrested. She fears that this kind of harassment and endless investigations into her legal status will occur under SB 1070 because of where she lives, her Hispanic appearance, and her limited English ability.

28. Plaintiff John Doe #1 is a resident of Phoenix, Arizona. He is Chinese and a lawful permanent resident of the United States. He received his permanent resident status in 2008 after being granted asylum on the basis of political persecution by the government of the People Republic of China. John Doe #1 has spent the last three years building a new life here and currently works as a waiter in a Chinese restaurant. John Doe #1 speaks Chinese and his English is very limited. If SB 1070 goes into effect, he fears that he will be stopped by state or local law enforcement officers and questioned about his immigration status on the basis of his Asian appearance and accent. John Doe #1 is afraid of interacting with government officials in his native language because it could prompt them to question him about his authorization to be in the United States. John Doe #1 also understands that he will be detained if he is stopped without his green card. Due to his experience as a victim of official persecution, this possibility is extremely distressing to John Doe #1.

29. Plaintiff Jane Doe #3 is a resident of Tucson, Arizona. She is of Mexican descent, and speaks Spanish and very limited English. She has two children to whom she provides economic and housing support; a daughter who is 21 years old, and a son that is 18 years old. In 2009, Jane Doe #3 started spending time with a man who mentally abused her during their relationship. When she tried to end the relationship, he slashed her tires, and later broke into her apartment several times and destroyed her furniture, her clothes, and defaced the apartment walls. Due to his violent acts, she became afraid for her life and for her two children. Jane Doe #3 has recently filed her application for a U-Visa based on her status as a violent crime victim, but she does not currently have a registration document that would satisfy the registration provisions of SB 1070. Because she has filed her U-Visa application with the federal government, immigration authorities are aware of her presence in the country, but are not moving to initiate removal proceedings against her. Although Jane Doe #3 does have a copy of her U-Visa filing receipt, she is fearful that state or local law enforcement would not understand the importance of the document. Plaintiff Jane Doe #3 fears that, were the enjoined provisions of SB 1070 to take effect, she would be stopped, detained, and arrested by a

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

History and Intent of SB 1070

- 60. On April 19, 2010, the Arizona Legislature enacted SB 1070, a comprehensive system of state laws whose purpose is to õmake attrition through enforcement the public policy of all state and local government agencies in Arizonaö and to deter and punish õthe unlawful entry and presence of aliens.ö SB 1070 creates several new state criminal immigration offenses as well as criminal procedures relating to the investigation, seizure, and detention of persons suspected of federal immigration violations. The full text of SB 1070 is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 and incorporated by reference.
- 61. In enacting SB 1070, Arizona decided to express its dissatisfaction with federal immigration policy by legislating in an area reserved for the federal government.
- 62. On April 23, 2010, Governor Janice Brewer signed SB 1070 into law. In her signing statement, the Governor said that SB 1070 õrepresents another tool for our state to use as we work to solve a crisis we did not create and the federal government has refused to fix.ö Statement by Governor Janice K. Brewer (Apr. 23, 2010), available at http://azgovernor.gov/dms/upload/PR_042310_StatementByGovernorOnSB1070.pdf. - 64. In her signing statement on HB 2162, the Governor again indicated that SB 1070 is intended to empower the State of Arizona to take the place of the federal government in regulating immigration, stating that õ[t]he federal governmentøs failure requires us to act.ö Statement by Governor Janice K. Brewer (Apr. 30, 2010), available at http://azgovernor.gov/dms/upload/PR_043010_StatementGovBrewer.pdf.

- 65. The sponsors of SB 1070 intended for it to create a statewide regulation of immigration. SB 1070 as author, State Senator Russell Pearce, has touted SB 1070 as a means to achieve the õself-deportationö of undocumented immigrants in the state. Lawmaker Wants Special Session to Enact AZ Style Immigration Law, KLAS-TV-CBS NEWS, May 3, 2010, available at http://www.8newsnow.com/Global/story.asp? S=12419197. - 66. The enactment of SB 1070 was surrounded by a racially charged debate over the wisdom of adopting such a law. In the weeks leading up to passage of the bill, protestors and advocates on both sides of the issue held rallies, issued statements, debated in national media, and bombarded the Governor¢s office with e-mails and phone calls. - 69. The sponsor of SB 1070, Senator Russell Pearce, has sponsored legislation across a broad range of subjects that are related to issues of race and national origin in Arizona, including a recently-enacted bill intended to ban the Raza Studies program in the Tucson Unified School District. Mary Jo Pitzl, Arizona Bill Targets Ban on Ethnic Studies, ARIZ. In 2006, Senator Pearce drew fire for racially insensitive remarks and distributing an article from a white separatist group and a link to that groupøs website. - 72. SB 1070 has caused racial tensions because it is widely understood that it is motivated by and will result in discrimination against Latinos and other racial minorities in Arizona on the basis of their race and national origin.

Key Provisions of SB 1070

Requirement to investigate, determine, and punish status

- 73. SB 1070¢s numerous provisions create a comprehensive state-law system of immigration regulation and enforcement that will: (1) require police to investigate and determine who may remain in the United States; (2) erect a state immigration registration and punishment scheme by creating state crimes and criminal penalties relating to alien registration, immigration status, and work authorization; and (3) require police to arrest and detain individuals and transfer them to federal authorities based merely on a belief that they have violated federal civil immigration laws, when state and local officers are not competent to make such a determination or authorized to make it under federal law.
- 74. SB 1070 requires Arizona police, Arizona jails, and Arizona courts to detect, adjudge, punish, and facilitate the deportation of individuals who, in Arizonaøs view, are not entitled to remain in the United States. SB 1070 makes Arizona a legal island within the United States with separate immigration rules that do not apply in the other 49 states and that are contrary to and inconsistent with the federal Immigration and Nationality Act (õINAö), 8 U.S.C. §§ 1101 et seq., and federal implementing regulations and policies, 8 C.F.R. §§ 100.1 et seq.

- 75. SB 1070øs attempt to create Arizona-specific laws and enforcement mechanisms relating to immigration is an impermissible attempt to regulate immigration.
- 76. SB 1070¢s immigration regime also fundamentally conflicts with federal immigration law and legislates in fields occupied by such law.
- 77. SB 1070 as amended compels police officers to make immigration status determinations and to detain individuals based on a õreasonable suspicionö standard that is unworkable and cannot be applied by state and local officers; that requires impermissible reliance on race, national origin, and language; and that impermissibly burdens and interferes with the rights of lawful permanent resident immigrants and citizens in the State of Arizona.
- 78. As amended by HB 2162, Section 2 of SB 1070 creates a new section of the A.R.S., § 11-1051, which requires a police officer who has conducted a õlawful stop, detention or arrest . . . in the enforcement of any other law or ordinance of a county, city or town or [the State of Arizona]ö to make a õreasonable attemptö to determine the immigration status of the person who has been stopped, detained or arrested, whenever õreasonable suspicion exists that the person is an alien and is unlawfully present.ö A.R.S. § 11-1051(B).
- 79. The new statute, as amended by HB 2162, also requires that õ[a]ny person who is arrested shall have the person is mmigration status determined before the person is released.ö A.R.S. § 11-1051(B). This section requires the continued detention of an individual even if the sole reason for detention is status verification.
- 80. Section 2 of SB 1070 also authorizes officers to detain and transport a person who is determined by the officer to be an unauthorized immigrant to a federal facility, including a facility outside the officersøjurisdiction, upon receiving verification from federal authorities that the person is õunlawfully present.ö A.R.S. § 11-1051(D). This section does not require an officer to have any other justification under state law to detain the individual.

- 81. Section 2 of SB 1070 imposes a standard that is unworkable and preempted by federal law. The law requires state or local officers to attempt to determine immigration status, which must be determined through a federal administrative system applying complex federal statutes and regulations, and which is based upon historical facts about an individual that are not observable by an officer in the field.
- 82. Section 2 imposes an impermissible restriction and burden on speech by chilling the usage of words, accents, gestures, and other expressive speech.
- 83. Specifically, Section 2 restricts, suppresses, burdens, and chills speech, expressive conduct, and the right to petition the governmentô including particularly the courts and law enforcement authoritiesô because the law exposes speakers to scrutiny, detention, and/or arrest based on the identity of the speakers and the content of their speech, including the speaker's appearance, associations, and the language or accent being used by the speaker, for purposes of determining whether the speaker is õunlawfully presentö or has committed a õpublic offense that makes [him or her] removable.ö Both citizens and non-citizens may be chilled from communicating with the courts and law enforcement officials out of fear that they will be detained and/or arrested pursuant to SB 1070.
- 84. For example, Plaintiff John Doe #1 is a resident of Phoenix, Arizona, and a legal permanent resident. His English proficiency is extremely limited and he speaks English with a noticeable accent. He fears that he will be targeted pursuant to SB 1070 based on the language in which he expresses himself.
- 85. Section 2 impermissibly vests in police officers unbridled discretion to base their õreasonable suspicionö that a õperson is an alien and is unlawfully presentö on the content of the person® expressive conduct. Nothing in Section 2 forbids a police officer from developing a oreasonable suspicion that a person ois an alien and/or ois unlawfully presentö based solely on that personøs gestures, language, accent, clothing, English-word selection, failure to communicate in English, and/or other expressive conductô all of which is pure speech protected by the First Amendment. Indeed, Section 2 invites a police officer to decide that a person is oan alieno because the person oactso foreign or fails to õactö Americanô or to decide that a person is õunlawfully presentö because the person oactso like someone from a country the officer believes to be a source of õunlawfully presentö immigrants.

- 86. SB 1070 functions as an impermissible prior restraint on speech because a speaker wishing to avoid being stopped, questioned, detained, arrested, jailed, and/or threatened with civil or criminal liability must be prepared to prove that he or she is not õunlawfully presentö or cease engaging in protected speech and expressive conduct.
- 87. Section 2 permits warrantless seizures of individuals without probable cause that they have committed crimes.
- 88. Section 2 authorizes the warrantless search of an individual in any setting, including the individual s home.
- 89. Section 2 furthermore permits local and state law enforcement officials to seize and detain individuals, pending determination of their immigration status, without providing for any process to ensure the constitutionality of the detention and seizure.

Arrest, detention, and transfer provisions

90. Section 6 of SB 1070 amends Arizonage state law on warrantless arrests, A.R.S. § 13-3883, to allow for the warrantless arrest of a person when an officer has probable cause to believe that the person has committed oany public offense that makes the person removable from the United States.ö A.R.S. § 13-3883(A)(5). This provision requires local law enforcement officers to do what they are not equipped or authorized to do: make determinations about which õpublic offensesö make immigrants õremovableö from the United States, determine an alleged offenderøs immigration status, and make warrantless arrests solely for suspected violations of civil immigration laws, without regard to whether the federal government has authorized any such arrest or detention.

- 91. Section 6 of SB 1070 permits warrantless arrests by a state or local officer based on a standard that is unworkable and preempted by federal law. Whether an individual is õremovable from the United Statesö is determined through a federal administrative system and application of complex federal statutes and regulations, and is based upon historical facts about an individual. This determination cannot be made by a state or local law enforcement officer.
- 92. Section 6 provides no explanation or other sufficient guidance for individuals as to the meaning of õpublic offense that makes the person removable from the United States.ö This provision will cause warrantless seizures of individuals without probable cause that they have committed crimes.
- 93. The broad sweep of Section 6 which allows for warrantless arrests of any person whom a law enforcement officer suspects of having committed a õpublic offense that makes the person removable from the United Statesö fails to provide minimal guidelines to govern law enforcement in who they can and cannot arrest.
- 94. Section 6 authorizes the warrantless arrest of an individual in any setting, including the individualøs home.
- 95. Section 6 furthermore permits local and state law enforcement officials to detain and transport individuals to federal facilities in the state, without providing for any process to ensure the constitutionality of the detention.
- New state criminal provisions relating to immigration status and to work authorization

96. Section 3 of SB 1070, as amended by HB 2162, enacts a state immigration registration and penalty scheme in an area that Congress has exclusively regulated. SB 1070 conflicts with federal law and enforcement priorities, burdens the enforcement of federal law and is an obstacle to federal immigration enforcement and prosecution policies. Specifically, SB 1070 creates a new state criminal offense of owillful failure to complete or carry an alien registration document. A.R.S. § 13-1509. The primary element of the offense is that the person ois in violation of 8 United States Code section 1304(e) or 1306(a), federal statutes that impose certain requirements that non-citizens register with the federal government and carry registration documents. Under SB 1070, the first offense is deemed a Class 1 misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $100 and up to 20 days of jail time. A.R.S. § 13-1509(H). Subsequent offenses are punishable by up to 30 days of jail time. Id.

97. The purpose of the state registration provision is to punish immigrants with incarceration or to compel the initiation of federal immigration removal proceedings without regard to federal determinations and policies. State Senator Russell Pearce, chief sponsor of SB 1070, has stated that this provision of SB 1070 is intended to give law enforcement officers an additional means by which to õhold an illegal alien under state law if need be or just call ICE and turn them over to ICE.ö See Message From Sen. Russell Pearce (Mar. 24, 2010), available at http://www.maricopagop.org/2010/03/24/legislative-alert-hb-2632-and-sb1070/#more-1962.

98. Section 5 of SB 1070 defines new state crimes based on the solicitation and performance of work by individuals who lack federal work authorization. A.R.S. § 13-2928. This section makes it a Class 1 misdemeanor for anyone who attempts to hire or pick up day laborers to work at a different location, if the driver is impeding the normal flow of traffic. A.R.S. § 13-2928(A). This section also makes it a misdemeanor offense for a worker to get into a car if it is impeding traffic. A.R.S. § 13-2928(B). The statute also makes it a state crime for a person who õis unlawfully present in the United States and who is an unauthorized alien to knowingly apply for work, solicit work in a public place or perform work as an employee or independent contractor in this state.ö A.R.S. § 13-2928(C).

- 99. Section 5 of SB 1070 creates a content-based regulation of protected speech.
- 100. Section 5 prohibits and regulates speech soliciting õwork in a public placeö (emphasis added) through verbal or nonverbal communication by a gesture or nod, making it a crime for certain individuals to do so, while speech of a different content, even if expressed in the same time, place, and manner, is not so proscribed.
- 101. Section 5 prohibits the expression of availability to work in any õpublic place,ö including traditional public fora such as public streets, sidewalks, and parks.
- 102. Section 5 fails to define what constitutes õwork,ö covering such innocuous activity as artists offering to paint portraits in a public park and students conducting a carwash. Section 5 contains an impermissibly vague definition of õsolicitö as it includes all verbal communication without qualification and brings within its reach õnonverbal communication by a gesture or nod.ö Section 5 also requires that the õcommunication . . . indicate to a reasonable person that a person is willing to be employed,ö which is so vague as to be unenforceable, and could criminalize conduct, such as waving to a friend, which is not, in fact, soliciting work.
- 103. Arizona does not have a compelling or significant governmental interest in regulating speech and expression in the content-based manner employed by SB 1070. Nor is SB 1070 the least restrictive means to further any such interest.
- 104. Section 5 also makes it unlawful for a person who is õunlawfully presentö in the United States and who is unauthorized to work to solicit work in a public place or to knowingly apply for work regardless of whether any employment or business relationship is entered into.

105. Since the work of day laborers is by definition temporary and informal, day laborers and the contractors who hire them do not find each other through conventional advertising of availability. Rather, day laborers signal their availability for work by visibly gathering in public areas such as sidewalks or parking lots and gesturing to potential employers.

106. Many persons, including members of Tonatierrage Centro Macehualli, persons who participate in Southside day laborer program, members of Border Action Network, and Plaintiff Jose Vargas have previously expressed their desire, need, and availability for employment to persons in vehicles on the street, while peacefully standing on a public way, and have obtained lawful employment performing services such as gardening, moving, and light construction. These individuals and other day laborers wish to continue to engage in such expressive activity on sidewalks and other public areas in Arizona to indicate their need and availability to work. Indeed, for many, day labor is a critical, and oftentimes the only available means to obtain work. However, individuals fear doing so in the same manner as they have in the past because A.R.S. §§ 13-2928(C) and (D) subject them to the danger of arrest, fines, and other penalties should they engage in such expression.

107. Section 5 of SB 1070 also creates several new state criminal laws prohibiting the transporting, moving, concealing or harboring of unauthorized immigrants. A.R.S. §§ 13-2929(A)(1) and (2). This section also makes it a crime to oencourage or induce an alien to come to or reside in [Arizona]ö with knowledge or reckless disregard of the fact that osuch coming to, entering or residing in this state is or will be in violation of law.ö A.R.S. § 13-2929(A)(3). A person who violates these provisions would be subject to a class 1 misdemeanor and a fine of at least $1,000 with additional penalties where the offense involves ten or more immigrants. A.R.S. § 13-2929(D).

108. In addition, under section 10 of SB 1070, any means of transportation will be impounded if it is deemed to have been used in connection with violations of the harboring statute. A.R.S. § 13-2929(B).

109. The transportation, harboring, and encouragement provisions of SB 1070 provide no explanation or other sufficient guidance for individuals as to what actions will be deemed oin furtherance of illegal presenceo or othat the immigrant has entered or remained in the United States illegally.ö

Coercion of state and local police

110. Section 2 of SB 1070, as amended, creates a private right of action for any person to sue a city, town, or county othat adopts or implements a policy that limits or restricts the enforcement of federal immigration laws to less than the full extent permitted by federal law.ö This provision requires state and local law enforcement agencies to prioritize immigration over many competing law enforcement activities and thus strips agencies of their discretion to exercise considered judgment about how best to ensure public safety.

Comprehensive Federal Immigration System

111. The federal government has exclusive power over immigration matters. The U.S. Constitution grants the federal government the power to õestablish a uniform Rule of Naturalization, ö U.S. Const. art. I, § 8, cl. 4, and to oregulate Commerce with foreign Nations,ö U.S. Const. art. I, § 8, cl. 3. In addition, the Supreme Court has held that the Federal government power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration is inherent in the nation power to control immigration in the nation power to control sovereignty.

112. The U.S. Congress has created a comprehensive system of federal laws regulating and enforcing immigration in the INA. See 8 U.S.C. § 1101 et seq. This extensive statutory scheme leaves no room for supplemental state laws.

- 113. The federal government has also issued numerous regulations, policies, and procedures interpreting the provisions of the INA and has established a large and complex administrative apparatus to carry out its mandates.
- 114. The INA carefully calibrates the nature (criminal or civil) and degree of penalties applicable to each possible violation of its terms.
- 115. The INA contains complex and exclusive procedures for determining immigration and citizenship status, deciding whether the civil provisions of the immigration laws have been violated, and determining whether an individual may lawfully be removed from the United States.
- 116. Under federal law, there is no single, readily ascertained category or characteristic that establishes whether a particular person may or may not remain in the United States. The answer to that question is a legal conclusion that can only be reached through the processes set forth in the INA and may depend on the discretionary determinations of federal officials.
- 117. There are many non-citizens who are present in the United States without formal permission who lack the õregistration documentö mandated by SB 1070, yet would not be removed if placed in federal removal proceedings. For example, an individual may be eligible for some form of immigration relief, such as asylum, adjustment of status, or withholding of removal. Some of these individuals are known to the federal government; others will not be identified until they are actually placed in proceedings by the federal government and their cases are adjudicated.
- 118. Federal immigration agencies such as ICE or U.S. Customs and Border Protection do not and cannot determine whether a particular person may remain in the United States, or whether a particular person has committed a õpublic offenseö that would make the person õremovable,ö without going through the procedures set forth in the INA. Federal agencies similarly do not and cannot determine definitively, in response to a demand from a state or local official, whether an individual is ounlawfully presento or has oauthorization to remain in the United Stateso as those phrases are used in SB 1070. The databases searched in response to these queries are not set up to make final determinations of whether an individual has federally authorized immigration status. These agencies can only determine whether they believe a non-citizen may be charged with deportability. Such a prosecutorial decision is not a determination of the individual & õimmigration status,ö which entails a complex administrative process. The phrase õimmigration statusö is usually used to refer to a number of categories defined by the INA for classifying individuals, not the ultimate question of whether an individual may remain in the United States.

119. Furthermore, determining whether or not a person is a citizen of the United States can be a complex and counterintuitive process. U.S. citizens are not required to carry documentary proof of their citizenship. There is no national database that contains information on every U.S. citizen. Some people are actually unaware of their U.S. citizenship because they may have acquired U.S. citizenship at birth by operation of law due to their parentsøcitizenship, despite not being born in the United States. See, e.g., INA § 322, 8 U.S.C. § 1433. Others automatically obtained citizenship when their parents became naturalized U.S. citizens. See, e.g., INA § 320, 8 U.S.C. § 1431.

120. SB 1070\( \phi\) creation of a state immigration system fundamentally conflicts with the INA statutory scheme, impermissibly encroaches on the federal government s exclusive power to regulate immigration, and will lead to erroneous determinations by state and local officials.

121. Moreover, SB 1070 conflicts with and is preempted by provisions of the INA that set forth comprehensive federal schemes addressing: (1) alien registration; (2) transportation and harboring; (3) work authorization and sanctions for unauthorized work; and (4) arrest authority for immigration violations.

Federal registration system

122. The INA includes a national alien registration system that displaces and preempts state alien registration laws.

123. The federal alien registration scheme requires certain non-citizens to register with the federal government and to carry proof of this registration with them. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1302, 1306(a), and 1304(d)-(e). Specifically, the INA requires every non-citizen in the United States over the age of 14 who has been in the United States for over 30 days to apply for registration with the federal government. 8 U.S.C. § 1302(a). Once registered, non-citizens are given a õcertificate of alien registration or an alien registration receipt card,ö the form and issuance of which are to be prescribed in õregulations issued by the Attorney General.ö 8 U.S.C. § 1304(d). Non-citizens over the age of 18 who willfully fail to carry these documents face fines or prison time of up to 30 days. 8 U.S.C. § 1304(e). Non-citizens who willfully fail to register face fines or prison time of up to six months. 8 U.S.C. § 1304(a).

124. The federal registration scheme has been in place since 1940 and was designed to create a single, uniform, national scheme.

125. The preemptive effect of the federal alien registration scheme was expressly recognized by the President of the United States when the scheme was created and has been expressly upheld by the Supreme Court.

126. The federal regulation implementing 8 U.S.C. §§ 1302, 1304, and 1306 prescribes as õevidence of registrationö specific forms for compliance. See 8 C.F.R. § 264.1. The list, however, has not been kept up to date with current federal forms and procedures. As a result, there are categories of noncitizens who have applied for immigration benefits or whose presence in the United States is otherwise known to federal immigration agencies but who do not have registration documents that are valid under the regulation.

127. Many of the changes that have been made to the INA since the enactment of the registration provisions reflect Congressøs decision to focus on and prioritize immigration enforcement against those immigrants who commit serious criminal offenses. Targeting immigrants convicted of serious crimes, rather than those who may be in violation of the registration provisions, is the principal priority of federal immigration officers.

Federal transportation provision

- 128. The INA also establishes criminal penalties for the transporting and harboring of certain non-citizens. See 8 U.S.C. §§ 1324(a)(1)-(2). Violations of these provisions carry fines and prison terms ranging from five years to life. Id.
- 129. The federal courts are engaged in an ongoing process of interpreting the statutory language in 8 U.S.C. § 1324(a) and determining the reach of the federal prohibitions therein. Arizona law enforcement officers are neither trained nor equipped to have a detailed and current understanding of these interpretations.
- 130. Arizona courts are not required to interpret the language in SB 1070 regarding transportation and harboring consistently with the federal courtsøinterpretation of similar language in federal law.
- 131. SB 1070¢s transportation and harboring provisions require Arizona¢s courts, as a prerequisite to finding a violation, to determine whether an alien õhas come to, entered, or remains in the United States in violation of the lawö or whether an alien¢s entry õwill be in violation of lawö as those terms are used in 8 U.S.C. § 1324(a).

Federal employment authorization and sanctions system

132. The INA contains a comprehensive scheme to regulate the employment of aliens that reflects a careful balance between multiple objectives, including the desire to reduce unauthorized employment, to protect workers against discrimination, and to impose manageable standards on employers and workers. The comprehensiveness of that federal scheme has been recognized by the Supreme Court.

133. Congress chose to regulate alien employment in the INA by focusing on employers. Employers are required to verify the employment authorization of applicants on Form I-9, and employers who knowingly employ unauthorized workers are subject to civil penalties or criminal penalties if the violation is sufficiently severe. Federal law does not impose fines or criminal penalties on unauthorized workers simply for working without authorization.

134. Arizonaøs decision to criminalize unauthorized employment despite Congressøs choice of other means to address such conduct directly conflicts with federal law.

Federal restrictions on arrest authority

135. State and local police have no general authority to enforce federal immigration law. Federal law specifically authorizes state officers to assist in immigration enforcement only in narrowly defined circumstances and otherwise reserves immigration enforcement authority to the federal government.

136. Section 1357(g) of Title 8 of the U.S. Code allows the federal government to õenter into a written agreement with a State, or any political subdivisionö to carry out õfunction[s] of an immigration officer in relation to the investigation, apprehension, or detention of aliens in the United States.ö 8 U.S.C. § 1357(g). These agreements are commonly referred to as õ287(g) agreementsö after the section of the INA in which they are codified. However, such agreements may be entered into only if the federal government determines the state officers are õqualified to perform a function of an immigration officer,ö id., and the federal government must train and supervise officers who are authorized under such an agreement. Nine agencies in Arizona have current agreements pursuant to this statutory provision.

137. SB 1070 explicitly grants state and local law enforcement officers authority to make immigration determinations, arrests, and investigations without and outside of the authority provided by a 287(g) agreement, even with respect to those agencies in Arizona that have a 287(g) agreement.

138. The other provisions in federal law authorizing state or local immigration enforcement are also carefully constrained. State and local police are authorized to make arrests for certain immigration crimesô smuggling, transporting, or harboring criminal aliens, and illegal entry by a previously deported felon. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1103(a)(10), 1252c. Another provision, 8 U.S.C. § 1103(a)(10), allows the Attorney General to authorize õany State or local law enforcement officerö to enforce immigration laws upon certification of õan actual or imminent mass influx of aliens,ö but no such certification has occurred.

139. Congressøs intent that state and local officers are generally prohibited from enforcing immigration laws is clear both from the statutory scheme and from the statements of its members.

140. Even as to federal immigration officers, the INA and associated regulations contain significant restrictions on the circumstances in which warrantless arrests may be made and the procedures that are required following such arrests. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1357(a), (d); 8 C.F.R. §§ 287.1-287.3, 287.5, 287.8, 287.10.

According to Napolitano, õI think it does and can invite racial profiling.ö Jake Tapper, Napolitano: Arizona Law "Bad for Law Enforcement", ABC NEWS: POLITICAL PUNCH, May 2, 2010, available at http://blogs.abcnews.com/politicalpunch/2010/05/napolitano-arizona-law-bad-for-law-enforcement.html.

147. Attorney General Eric Holder further criticized SB 1070, saying, õI think we could potentially get on a slippery slope where people will be picked on because of how they look as opposed to what they have done, and that is, I think, something that we have to try to avoid at all costs.ö Holder: Feds May Sue Over Arizona Immigration Law, CNN, May 9, 2010, available at http://www.cnn.com/2010/POLITICS/05/09/holder.arizona. immigration/index.html. Attorney General Holder also stated that implementation of SB 1070 will lead to õa situation where people are racially profiled, and that could lead to a wedge drawn between certain communities and law enforcement, which leads to the problem of people in those communities not willing to interact with people in law enforcement, not willing to share information, not willing to be witnesses where law enforcement needs them.ö Id.

148. Many prominent law enforcement and elected officials in Arizona have condemned SB 1070 on the grounds that it will lead to rampant racial profiling, divert resources from law enforcement work, keep immigrants and other people of color from reporting crimes to police, and ultimately diminish community safety.

149. Former Governor Napolitano said, õWith the strong support of state and local law enforcement, I vetoed several similar pieces of legislation as governor of Arizona

A comprehensive investigation by the Arizona Republic found that during eight MCSO so-called orime suppression operations studied, MCSO deputies engaged in selective enforcement of the traffic law, and that the majority of drivers and passengers arrested were Latino even in predominantly White areas. 159. As a result of evidence of a pattern and practice of civil rights violations, MCSO is currently the subject of a civil rights investigation by the U.S. Department of Justice.

160. Demonstrating that the intent of SB 1070, as amended by HB 2162, is to enable pretextual stops and arrests for the purpose of immigration enforcement, State Senator Russell Pearce inadvertently circulated an email on April 28, 2010 which explained one provision of HB 2162 as follows: ōWhen we drop out ∃awful contactøand replace it with ∃a stop, detention, or rest [sic], in the enforcement a violation of any title or section of the Arizona codeøwe need to add ∃or any county or municipal ordinance.øThis will allow police to use violations of property codes (i.e. cars on blocks in the yard) or rental codes (too many occupants of a rental accommodation) to initiate queries as well.ö Gabriel Winant, E-Mail Reveals Arizona Law Was Designed To Maximize Harassment, SALON, May 3, 2010, available at http://www.salon.com/news/politics/war_room/2010/05/03/arizona_kobach_profiling. SB 1070 was intended to create opportunities for officers to determine which members of the community should be investigated as to their immigration status first, and then to develop a pretextual reason to stop them for some other violation of state or local law second.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

161. The Individual Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and all other persons similarly situated pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2). The class, as proposed by Plaintiffs, consists of all persons:

- (a) who as a result of their race or national origin are or will be subject to stop, detention, arrest or questioning about their immigration or nationality status or required to produce documentation of that status, pursuant to a provision of SB 1070; or
- (b) who are or will be deterred from soliciting employment in a public place or performing work as an employee or independent contractor by § 5 of SB 1070; or
- (c) who are or will be deterred from using their customary language, accent, or other expressive conduct, or from approaching government officials to obtain redress because of the provisions of SB 1070; or
- (d) who are or will be deterred from living, associating, worshiping, or traveling with immigrants in Arizona because of the provisions of SB 1070; or
- (e) who are or will be deterred from traveling into or through the State of Arizona because of the provisions of SB 1070.
- 162. The requirements of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2) are met in that the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.
- 163. There are questions of law and fact common to the proposed class, including: (1) whether SB 1070 is preempted by the U.S. Constitution and federal law; (2) whether SB 1070 deprives racial and national origin minorities of the equal protection of the laws within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution; (3) whether SB 1070 violates the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution; (4) whether SB 1070 violates the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and Article 2, Section 8 of the

DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF ALLEGATIONS

166. An actual and substantial controversy exists between Plaintiffs and Defendants as to their respective legal rights and duties. Plaintiffs contend that they face an imminent threat of harm if SB 1070 is enforced, and that SB 1070 violates the U.S. Constitution, federal law, and state law. Defendants are obligated to enforce SB 1070 unless it is found to be illegal.

Arizona Constitution; and (5) whether SB 1070 is impermissibly vague and violates due process of law. These questions predominate over any questions affecting only the Individual Plaintiffs.

164. The claims of the Individual Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the proposed class.

165. All of the Individual Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately represent the interests of all members of the proposed class because they seek relief on behalf of the class as a whole and have no interests antagonistic to other members of the class. The Individual Plaintiffs are also represented by pro bono counsel, including the ACLU of Arizona, the ACLU Foundation Immigrants Rights Project, the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the National Immigration Law Center, the Asian Pacific American Legal Center (a member of the Asian American Center for Advancing Justice), the National Day Laborer Organizing Network, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Altshuler Berzon LLP, and Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP, who have extensive expertise in class action litigation, including litigation regarding the rights of immigrants. Finally, Defendants have acted and will act on grounds generally applicable to the class in executing their duties to enforce SB 1070, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief with respect to the class as a whole. //

167. In violating Plaintiffsørights under the U.S. Constitution, federal law, and state aw, Defendants have acted and will be acting under color of law.
168. If allowed to go into effect, SB 1070 will cause irreparable injury to Plaintiffs.
169. Plaintiffs have no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy at law against SB 1070 other than the relief requested in this Complaint.
170. Article IV, part 1, § 1(3) of the Arizona Constitution provides that ono act passed by the legislature shall be operative for ninety days after the close of the session of the legislature enacting such measure,ö except certain specifically designated õemergency measures.ö The legislative session during which SB 1070 and HB 2162 were enacted ended on April 29, 2010. Accordingly, the effective date of SB 1070 is July 28, 2010.
171. If SB 1070 goes into effect and is not enjoined, Plaintiffs will suffer irreparable harm as alleged above.
172. SB 1070 will require persons in the state to carry immigration registration documents under state law to avoid detention, arrest, and possible prosecution. In addition, SB 1070 will cause the investigation, detention, harassment, and arrest of numerous persons of color in Arizona, including members of Plaintiffs UFCW, BAN, Tonatierra, SEIU, SEIU Arizona, MAS, and JACL, as well as Individual Plaintiffs Pedro
Espinoza, C.M., Luz Santiago, Jim Shee, Jose Vargas, Maura Castillo, Maria Morales, John Doe #1, Jane Doe #3, and members of the plaintiff class.
173. In addition, SB 1070 will thwart the mission of and subject to criminal prosecution numerous service and business organizations, including Plaintiffs Friendly House, ASASF, AZHCC, Valle del Sol, and Derechos Humanos.
174. In doing the things alleged in this Complaint, defendants will deny plaintiffsø rights secured by the U.S. Constitution, federal law, and state law.

176. Plaintiffs are entitled to a declaration that SB 1070 is unconstitutional on its 1 2 face and to an order preliminarily and permanently enjoining its enforcement. 3 CAUSES OF ACTION COUNT ONE 4 5 SUPREMACY CLAUSE; 42 U.S.C. § 1983 177. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set 6 7 forth herein. 8 178. The Supremacy Clause, Article VI, Section 2, of the U.S. Constitution 9 provides: 10 This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under 11 the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the 12 Constitution of Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding. 13 179. The Supremacy Clause mandates that federal law preempts state law in any 14 area over which Congress expressly or impliedly has reserved exclusive authority or 15 which is constitutionally reserved to the federal government, or where state law conflicts 16 or interferes with federal law. 17 180. SB 1070 is void in its entirety because it attempts to bypass federal 18 immigration law and to supplant it with a state policy of oattrition through enforcement, ö 19 in violation of the prohibition on state regulation of immigration. 20 181. SB 1070 conflicts with federal laws and policies, usurps powers 21 constitutionally vested in the federal government exclusively, attempts to legislate in 22 fields occupied by the federal government, imposes burdens and penalties on legal 23 residents not authorized by and contrary to federal law, and unilaterally imposes burdens 24 on the federal government resources and processes, each in violation of the Supremacy 25 Clause. 26

1 182. Plaintiffs move for declaratory and injunctive relief on this claim directly 2 under the Constitution, and as an action seeking redress of the deprivation of statutory 3 rights under the color of state law, and also under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. COUNT TWO 4 5 EQUAL PROTECTION; 42 U.S.C. § 1983 6 183. SB 1070 was enacted with the purpose and intent to discriminate against racial 11 and national origin minorities, including Latinos, on the basis of race and national origin. 12 186. SB 1070 impermissibly and invidiously targets Plaintiffs who are racial and 13 national origin minorities, including Latinos, residing or traveling in Arizona and subjects 14 them to stops, detentions, questioning, and arrests because of their race and/or national 15 origin. 16 187. SB 1070 impermissibly deprives Plaintiffs who are racial and national origin 17 minorities, including Latinos, residing or traveling in Arizona of the equal protection of 18 the laws within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. 19 188. Section 3 of SB 1070 impermissibly discriminates against non-citizen 20 Plaintiffs on the basis of alienage and deprives them of the equal protection of the laws 21 within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. 22 23 24 25 26
